Wonderful Invention

Successful Test of Garretson Pyritic Smelting Furnace at Crofton.

Machine Smelts Ore Direct From Mine Without Roasting or Crushing.

Problem of Treating Low Grade Mt. Sicker Ores Is Solved.

The test of the Garretson pyritic smelting furnace, made at Crofton on Saturday, was quite as successful as anticipated by the gentlemen interested. It must be remembered that Saturday's trial of the Garretson furnace was not a "blow-in" of the Crofton smelter; it was simply a test of the working of the new furnace in which the proprietors of the Crofton smelter have only such an interest as all practical metallurgists have in a new process which promises to revolutionize the treatment of ores. The furnace did all that its inventors claim for it, and the test would have proved an unqualified success had it not been for an unforeseen accident which did not occur in the furnace and for which it was in no way responsible.

The Garretson furnace demonstrated that it could smelt wet ore direct from the mine without previous roasting or crushing, with the least possible consumption of fuel, that it could reduce the low grade ore to a very rich matte, and it was on the point of converting the matte into pig copper when the accident referred to intervened. Enough was done, however, to convince all concerned that the furnace is capable of performing all the work claimed for it when it is in perfect running order.

The furnace also did a trick which has been held an impossibility by metallurgists—it reduced to matte, without fluxes, low grade ore very heavily charged with barites. This puts an end to all doubt as to the possibility of smelting the low grade ores of Mount Sicker at a fair profit and assures the success of copper mining on Vancouver Island.

The Esquimalt & Nanaimo company's steamer City of Nanaimo made a special trip to Crofton on Saturday with a party of gentlemen interested in the Garretson pyritic converting furnace, which has been installed in the North-western Smelting & Refining Company's works, with the object of witnessing a test of the machinery. At the head of the party was Mr. Ralph Baggaley, of Pittsburgh, Pa., a large shareholder and director of the Garretson Furnace Company, of Chicago, who was accompanied by Messrs. J. W. Wells, chief engineer of the United States and British Columbia. Other members of the party were Judge James H. Reed, president of the Garretson Furnace Company, and former partner of Hon. Mr. Knox, attorney-general of the United States; Messrs. E. W. Lindquist, T. W. Bakewell, Wm. A. Bole, T. A. Witherspoon, D. E. Jackson, J. C. Robertson, Messrs. N. Greenhalgh, K. C. of Montreal, a director, and A. A. Munro, secretary-treasurer of the Montreal & Boston Copper Company, operating the Smelter and Refinery, and the Boundary Falls smelter, accompanied the party to observe the workings of the Garretson smelter, with a view to adopting it for the treatment of Boundary ores.

The following gentlemen were on board, the guests of Mr. Baggaley: Hon. Edgar Dewdney, ex-lieutenant-governor of British Columbia; Col. the Hon. E. G. Prior, minister of mines; Hon. C. Wells, chief commissioner of lands and works; Capt. John Irving, Richard Hall, M.P.P., A. E. McPhillips, K.C., M.P.P., Dr. Powell, H. B. Robertson, G. R. Courtney, train manager E. J. Ry. Co., and Frank I. Clarke, mining editor, Colonist.

The City of Nanaimo left her dock at 9 o'clock a.m. and was under way. She was covered the Straits and observed the scenery for the first time or so. It cleared away, however, after Sidney was passed, and the whole party enjoyed the passage of the straits and the view of the islands. The understanding was that the Garretson furnace would be fired up about 9 o'clock, and shortly after passing Maple Bay, Mr. Baggaley, who was keeping a sharp lookout ahead, exclaimed:

"Look there, gentlemen; see the smoke from the big stack!"

All eyes were turned in the direction indicated, and great clouds of yellow smoke were seen floating above the tall chimneys in the direction of Crofton, and every one on board realized that the first smelting of the ore in the Garretson furnace was in operation, and every one was filled with repressed excitement, for he felt the emotion of participating in a great event in the industrial history of the province. As the steamer swung round the point into Osborne Bay, and the extensive buildings and docks of the Northwestern Smelting & Refining Company and the town of Crofton came into view, there were many expressions of appreciation of the enterprise of Messrs. Breen, Bellenger and Fotheringham, who had wrought such a change in the place in a few short months, converting an island homestead into a centre of bustling industry.

THE GARRETSON FURNACE.

Arriving at Crofton dock about 10 o'clock p.m., all hands hastened to land and made their way to the smelter, where a busy scene was in progress. The Garretson furnace was in full blast, its roarings and explosive noises resembling those of a miniature volcano, which it is in fact, its operation being practically the theory of volcanic action reduced to an actuality and turned to industrial use.

The furnace is a massive, solid affair, giving the impression of immense strength and resistance to the forces at work in its interior. It is a simple water jacket shaft without bush, the jacket being built of massive beams of copper of the highest quality obtainable, containing 99 1/2 per cent. of pure copper. Its interior dimensions are 39x161 inches, and its height 10 feet. It has 52 smelting tuyeres, 2 inches in diameter and 52 converting tuyeres 3/4 inch in diameter. The bottom is a copper water jacket overlaid with 9 inches of fire brick. The water jacket is very thick in construction, a single valve regulating the flow, so that complications of that respect are almost impossible. The capacity of the furnace is estimated at 30 tons per day, but this will vary according to the quality of the ore. It will treat in the 24 hours from 200 to 250 tons of the most refractory grades, attaining its largest output in the treatment of easily smelted material. The inventor of the Garretson pyritic converting furnace claims that it is one of the most important inventions ever contributed to the mining and smelting industries, superior to all others and destined to work a greater revolution in the treatment of low grade sulphide ores than the Bessemer converter worked in the production of steel. In order to estimate the value of the Garretson process, one must understand something of the ordinary process of handling sulphide ore by the old methods. It consists of three stages: First, roasting, or calcining, the ore, which entails considerable cost and waste; second, smelting the roasted ore in blast or reverberatory furnaces, and in this operation the fuel used in smelting the charge forms, on an average, about 60 per cent. of the cost of the blast furnace process; and, third, converting the matte produced in the blast or reverberatory furnaces, and in this operation the fuel used in smelting the charge forms, on an average, about 60 per cent. of the cost of the blast furnace process; and, third, converting the matte produced in the blast or reverberatory furnaces, and in this operation the fuel used in smelting the charge forms, on an average, about 60 per cent. of the cost of the blast furnace process.

The great merit claimed for the Garretson furnace lies in the combination of these three operations in one furnace. The furnace is so designed and constructed that it is adapted to receive the raw, unroasted sulphide ore, just as it comes from the mine, and smelting the ore itself contains in the form of sulphur and iron. The slag which is discharged from the furnace carries away less than 1-20th part as much copper as is lost in the slag by the old process, thus, it is claimed, effecting an additional saving of great importance. In fact, the strong point claimed for the Garretson process is that it will treat low grade ores, which cannot be utilized by the ordinary methods at a considerable profit, and that in consequence the profits to be derived from high grade ores treated by the Garretson process would be proportionately large.

Another unique advantage claimed for the Garretson furnace is the fact that it contains in a small, compact and comparatively inexpensive furnace the utility and value of a large, cumbersome and costly smelting establishment, and that owing to this it can be installed and operated in places where it would be impossible to operate the ordinary smelter. In short, the Garretson furnace, the result of many years of research and experiment, is claimed by its inventor to be the practical, economic and simple combination of the several established methods into one process.

To make the great saving claimed for the Garretson furnace more readily understood, it may be mentioned that the ordinary smelting practices now in vogue require from four to six distinct processes. In the case of one containing a large percentage of sulphur, they are first piled in immense heaps, built of alternate layers of cordwood and ore, and there roasted for several weeks to dispose of the sulphur. At the end of the roasting process, necessitating much extra handling of the ore, besides which it entails the maintenance of large reserves of roast piles, a furnace with a capacity of 1,000 tons a day requiring to have about 42,000 tons of ore in process of roasting. After the ore has been roasted it is conveyed to the crushers, thence to the furnace, and having been smelted, and reduced to matte, is transferred to another furnace, where it undergoes a refining process, which rids it of a proportion of its impurities. It is then taken to a converter, which transforms it into blister copper. These processes are supplemented by others in the case of certain refractory low grade ores.

The Garretson furnace, it is claimed, enables the smelting and conversion to be done at one operation, and does away entirely with the complicated and costly processes mentioned. It can therefore be easily imagined with what interest Saturday's trial at Crofton was witnessed by all who are either directly or indirectly interested in the Garretson furnace.

It should be understood that the installation of the Garretson furnace at Crofton did not enter into the calculations of the owners of the works. They contemplated the installation of a regular water jacket blast furnace, with a capacity of 400 tons a day, a cupola furnace for improving the matte and a converter for converting the matte into pig copper. The Garretson furnace, it is now in position and ready for operation, and the converter will be placed in position as soon as the machinery, part of which is now on the ground, has been received.

ITALY AND CANADA.

Sir Wilfrid Interviews the Pope and the Government.

Rome, Sept. 22.—The Pope today accepted an audience to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Premier of Canada, and Lady Laurier, and was very cordial to them. The Pontiff showed great interest in Canada, and said he had closely followed the proceedings of the premiers' conference in London. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is studying the Italian tariff, with one object of arranging for closer commercial relations with Canada. He has had an informal conference with the authorities on the subject, and discussed what Canadian goods could be advantageously imported.

SCUFFLE LEADS TO KILLING

C. P. R. Bridge Workman at Field Shot Dead by an Italian.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Vancouver, Sept. 22.—Information comes from Golden of a murder case at Field, the victim of the affray being a man named Gordon, a member of the bridge crew of D. Bain, on the C. P. R. The shooting was unprovoked, and the death of Gordon was due to an Italian, who was also a member of the same gang of workmen. The affair took place about 7 o'clock in the morning and an hour later Gordon was dead.

The two men were engaged in what to all appearances was a friendly scuffle, just before work commenced, when the foreigner drew a revolver and shot Gordon in the chest.

The homicide was captured by the men immediately after and held until the arrival of Sheriff Redgrave, of Golden, who was telegraphed for.

May Sever Relations

Great Britain Has More Trouble With the Quarrelsome Republic.

And at Any Moment Ministers at Caracas May Be Recalled.

Fiery South Americans Take a Reckless View of Monroe Doctrine.

London, Sept. 22.—The Associated Press is in a position to announce that diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Venezuela are on the verge of being severed. Almost any hour may bring the announcement that the British minister at Caracas has been given his passports with corresponding action towards the Venezuelan representative in London. The cause of the crisis does not seem to be confined to any particular incident, but consists in various difficulties which culminated in Venezuela assuming such an angry attitude as to leave Downing street fully impressed with the belief that the Venezuelan government intends to force matters to a point where a rupture of diplomatic relations would result in hostilities as a contingency thus far scarcely contemplated. The present diplomatic relations are so strained that to quote a responsible British official, "it would be a really very little difference if the fact became public property by the absence of the diplomatic representatives from Caracas and London."

The view of the foreign office is that affairs have reached a stage where it is impossible to deal satisfactorily with Venezuela, in any matter which may come up. In proof of this contention the foreign office invokes the report of the United States minister at Caracas, Herbert W. Bowen, announcing that the Venezuelan government had protested against the British flag being raised over Patois (or Goosoo) island, off the Venezuelan government claims sovereignty. According to the British government's understanding Patois island belongs to Great Britain, and the raising of the Venezuelan flag there would be an infringement of British sovereignty. Inhabitants of the island have recently been shot or otherwise endangered through the action of Venezuelans, whether government or revolutionary partisans is not known. For purposes of protection the local West Indian authorities ordered the British flag to be prominently displayed on the island, hence the protest which the Foreign office says is only one of many. An exceptional prominent official said to a representative of the Associated Press this morning:

"Affairs in Venezuela are so hopelessly muddled that we can get nothing done. There is no concealing the fact that the Venezuelan government has made heated protests to our minister. The chief grievances appear to be the allegation that the British government is adding to the revolutionary army. It is needless to say this is perfectly baseless. We only wish the United States would take over the whole country, and then perhaps we might get some peace. Of the disturbances of the last decade, the present seems to be the worst. This combined with the attitude of the national government makes us somewhat indifferent to any action which may take place. Venezuelans appear inclined to be rather reckless, thanks chiefly to what I presume is the mistaken notion that Washington would grant them their demands. The results of their own folly, however, might be to the life and property of British subjects and the other Europeans. As we understand the Monroe doctrine, we understand the impression has much to do with her present actions."

Aliens Voted in Vancouver on Saturday—Raid on Gambling Houses.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Vancouver, Sept. 22.—The act prohibiting alien property owners voting in municipal elections, which was passed at the last session of the Legislature, was not observed by the civic authorities in the voting on Saturday. This may have results totally unexpected on the fate of the by-laws.

JIBIRARA RETIREMENTS.

Fight Near Panama or Colon Now Unlikely.

Panama, Sept. 22.—Government soldiers, who were captured by General Herrera at Agua, and who were compelled to join his army, and who were decimated in the battle of Agua. They confirm the report that the whole army has abandoned the camp near Chorrera, and is retreating towards Aguadulce. It is reported that the Herrera has incorporated in his army all the guerrilla bands he can induce to join him. The abandonment of Chorrera camp, it is claimed, dispels all fear of interruption of the steamer line. Reinforcements of Colombian troops continue to arrive on the Panama, which it is believed this undoubtedly causes General Herrera's retreat.

Glenesslin Has An Adventure

She Drifted Near the Beacon Hill Shore During a Fog.

Linlithgowshire Makes Record Passage Across From Melbourne.

Two sailing vessels reached the Royal Roads on Sunday from Melbourne, the ship Glenesslin, 1745 tons, Pritchard, master; 71 days from the Australian port; and the British ship Linlithgowshire, 1354 tons, Anderson, master; 53 days from Melbourne. The passage of the Linlithgowshire is the best ever made from Australia to the Royal Roads, and the Linlithgowshire has therefore made a record for herself. The Glenesslin had a narrow escape from being stranded off Beacon Hill on Sunday. The ship rounded the Rocks during Saturday evening, and the wind dropped. The tide then set her towards Discovery Island and she drifted to the back of the island on Sunday morning. Then a southerly wind set her over towards Beacon Hill, the fog being carried by the wind enveloping the ship and shore and hiding everything. Capt. Pritchard was sounding when the vessel was carried in past Brodie ledge, and was drifting well inshore when an Indian who was out in a canoe hailed him and called to him to let go his anchor. Seeing that his vessel was getting dangerously near the rocks off the Dalles road, Capt. Pritchard let go his mud hook and waited for assistance, then being unable to get to the shoreward. The tug Lorne, which was lying at the outer wharf, waiting to go on the Marine Ways, was sent to the rescue, and she towed the Glenesslin to a safe anchorage off the Rocks. The Glenesslin is now anchored in the Royal Roads awaiting orders.

The Linlithgowshire, which made a record for the passage from Melbourne, was off the Cape on Saturday morning, and had she got steam then, the vessel would have anchored in the Roads on Saturday night. She came from the Australian coast by the Linlithgow route, and had strong trades through the islands, heavy southeasterlies and northeasterlies, with strong squalls, and had she got a slant from 38 north she would have made the passage in 45 days, which would have been even the record from Newcastle to San Francisco, now held by the bark Iversmald, which made the passage from Newcastle, N. S. W., to San Francisco with a cargo in 42 days and 10 hours. The Linlithgowshire was but 37 days to 38 north latitude from Melbourne. The ship has been chartered to load wheat at Tacoma on account of the B. C. Electric Railway, South Africa, and will proceed to her loading port tonight in tow of the tug Tree.

The bark Dynamene, which arrived about a week ago from Hongkong, has been chartered to load wheat at Portland, and left for that port last night, being towed to the Cape by the tug Tree, which will take the Linlithgowshire to Tacoma on her return. The Alta, which left the Marine Ways at Esquimalt yesterday, will proceed to Port Blakely to load lumber for Manila, and the Province, which arrived from Valparaiso a few days ago, has been chartered to load at Tacoma.

The ship Lydenhorst, which left Hongkong at the same time as the Dynamene, is due from the China port. The British ship Braboch, 2000 tons, Baxter, master, is en route from Sydney, being now 46 days out from that port. The German bark Gollard, 1227 tons, Oertel, master, is 30 days out from Hongkong for Victoria, and the ship California, 2401 tons, Doty, master, has been added to the fleet en route here. She is 32 days out from Capetown in ballast for Royal Roads.

Heavy Cargo of Freight Taken by the Queen City.

Steamer Queen City, Capt. Townsend, sailed for the West Coast early this morning laden to the guns with general cargo. Included in this were some boilers for San Juan, heavy lumber shipments for the Yreka Copper company's plant on the Queen's Range, and various items of material for the aerial tramway being erected there, and supplies for the camp and adjacent camp. There was also freight for the many ports of call along the coast. The passengers who sailed on the steamer included D. D. Calkins, of Tacoma, who has bonded the Edison group on Quatsino Sound adjoining the Yreka, H. E. Newton, of San Juan, and several miners being

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are invaluable to the working man, because they make him well, and keep him well, and do this at small cost. Mr. Peacock, who states his case below, was continually losing time before he found out the great curative powers of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. He had been suffering from kidney and liver troubles, and severe headache. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, I am now well, and able to work full time.

TACOMA IN PORT.

Northern Pacific Liner Lands Cargo at Outer Docks.

The steamer Tacoma, of the Northern Pacific Line, arrived at the outer docks on Sunday night. She left Hongkong on August 23rd, and after calling at Shanghai, Moji and Kobe, left Yokohama on September 5th. She crossed the Meridian on September 13th, and arrived at the outer docks on the 20th, when the steamer encountered thick fog, which remained with her until arrival in Victoria on the 21st. She landed 2000 tons of general merchandise here. The passengers brought by the steamer were: For New York—Dr. and Mrs. Vanderburgh and four children, medical missionaries from Hainan; Mrs. Lavoie, her two children; and Messrs. Oids, Jacobs, Alexander and Colwell, all for Tacoma. Mr. Oids is a mining man and is returning from the Korean gold fields, where he has been employed at the Leigh Hunt mines.

The Tacoma will sail again for the Orient on October 2nd, and prior to that time Capt. Dixon, her master, is to join the army of the benevolent. He is to be married while the vessel is in port at Tacoma, to Miss Young of that city. The steamer Pigeon, now at Tacoma loading 6000 tons of wheat, will also sail from the outer docks on October 2nd, where she will load a large consignment of salmon for Hongkong and Liverpool. The remainder of her cargo, mostly for Liverpool, consists of flour and general merchandise. The Pigeon will sail for Liverpool via the Orient and the Suez canal; but the steamer Kintuck, now at Tacoma loading wheat and salmon, will sail for Liverpool via the Straits of Magellan. She will load salmon here.

The steamer Hyson, of the same line, is en route, having left Liverpool on August 23rd. The steamer Yangtze is also en route, having sailed from the Mersey on Saturday. The steamer Takan will sail from Liverpool on October 18th.

Twelve Japanese arrived for this port on the Tacoma, six of whom were rejected by the immigration officials.

MARINE NOTES.

Steamer Nell sailed for Northern ports last night. As stated she will proceed to Alaska to take the load of wild game, now there, for Port Essington.

Steamer Princess May will sail for Skagway tonight.

D. G. S. Quadra is back from Ensenada Island.

Included in this were some boilers for San Juan, heavy lumber shipments for the Yreka Copper company's plant on the Queen's Range, and various items of material for the aerial tramway being erected there, and supplies for the camp and adjacent camp. There was also freight for the many ports of call along the coast. The passengers who sailed on the steamer included D. D. Calkins, of Tacoma, who has bonded the Edison group on Quatsino Sound adjoining the Yreka, H. E. Newton, of San Juan, and several miners being

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Good health is the capital of the majority of people, and when health fails time and wages are lost. It is not only the suffering that is to be considered, but the expense as well. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are invaluable to the working man, because they make him well, and keep him well, and do this at small cost. Mr. Peacock, who states his case below, was continually losing time before he found out the great curative powers of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. He had been suffering from kidney and liver troubles, and severe headache. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, I am now well, and able to work full time.

Footballers Getting Ready

Meeting of Junior League Last Night at Victoria Athletic Club.

Columbias Organize - Shamrock Team May Play Here - Other Events.

A general meeting of the Victoria District Football League was held last evening in the V. A. C. rooms, President Tait in the chair. The financial statement of the closing year was adopted. It was unanimously decided to name Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, K. C. M. G., to act as honorary president, Mr. E. V. Bodwell and Mr. A. E. McPhillips as honorary vice-presidents, and the Rev. W. V. Bolton as president. Mr. W. N. Winsby as vice-president. G. A. King was made secretary-treasurer. The entries for admission to the junior league were closed, but no time for entry into the intermediate and senior leagues was extended for one week, till the end of the month. The junior teams that have entered are the High School, Boys' Central, Victoria West, South Park, North Ward and the Capital City teams, in all six. This will undoubtedly make the contest for the junior cup very exciting.

TENNIS.

Schwengers and Powell Win From Pooley and Goward.

B. Schwengers and R. B. Powell defeated H. Pooley and A. T. Goward at tennis on Saturday afternoon, at the Victoria tennis grounds, near Belcher street. The game was won by three straight sets in favor of Schwengers and Powell.

FOOTBALL.

Columbias Are Ready For Coming Season.

The annual meeting of the Columbia Association Football Club was held last evening in their club rooms, over the Nesbitt Electric Company's store on X street. A large number of members were present, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, A. J. Hood; vice-president, W. Allan; secretary-treasurer, H. Nesbitt; captain, J. M. D. Lawson; vice-captain, T. G. Wilson, and committee, A. Peden and J. Hart. The colors will be red and white. The first practice will be held at Beacon Hill park on Saturday afternoon. Some of the club members and intending members are asked to turn out on foot.

BASEBALL.

Shamrocks Beat Silver Stars by Cricket Score.

A baseball match was played on Saturday between the Shamrocks, Capt. Creeden, v. Silver Stars, Capt. Gowan, on Pandora avenue, which resulted in the defeat of the Silver Stars with a score of 20 to 8. The Shamrocks, who were supported by a fine game, and well supported. The game was well umpired by C. Rodgers.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

The Victoria senior team will meet at the Victoria Athletic Club rooms, Fort street, this evening, for the purpose of organizing for the coming season. All interested in Association football are invited to attend. The Victorians are going to make a strong bid for the championship this season, and will be able to put a very strong team in the field. Besides reorganizing, the matter of entering the city league will be brought up.

SPORTING NOTES.

Efforts are being made to have the Shamrocks play an exhibition game in this city during the exhibition.

THE COMING EXHIBITION

Arrangements Will Probably Be Made With Shamrocks to Play Here.

A meeting of the Sports' committee of the British Columbia Agricultural association was held at the Exhibition offices last night, when arrangements were made to give an exhibition of the Shamrocks during two days of the exhibition. The offer from the teachers for a series of sports by the school children on condition that $100 be awarded for prizes, was laid on the table for further consideration. A despatch has been sent to Montreal endeavoring to make arrangements with the Shamrock lacrosse team to play one or more exhibition games in this city, and an answer has been received referring the association to the manager on his arrival at New Westminster. Arrangements will probably be made with the Shamrock lacrosse team to play one or more exhibition games in this city, and an answer has been received referring the association to the manager on his arrival at New Westminster.

Nearly 500 entries have already been received for the coming exhibition. There are over 70 entries in horses, and over 100 in cattle, and a like number for sheep and swine. These animals are nearly all the property of owners who did not exhibit last year. The number of entries in the live stock classes will undoubtedly necessitate the building of more stalls and pens. The buildings and grounds committee will hold a meeting this evening.

European Manager of the C.P.R. Speaks of Local Development.

Former Head of Britain's Medical Department Comes to Victoria.

Archibald Baker, European manager of the C. P. R., is a guest at the Drift. He has traveled across Canada and will start for home today via the Kootenays, for he intends to visit the Hudson's Bay posts. He has been meeting the importers, mining men and others of the various cities, and expressing himself as astonished at the growth of trade and industry in British Columbia since his last visit to this section 10 years ago. The difference in the city of Victoria ten years ago, and that of today is marvellous. Mr. Baker has been coming to Canada since 1893, and there have been great changes since those days, when British Columbia was little more than wilderness with its Hudson's Bay posts. When speaking yesterday of the chances of today, and when he last saw this province, Mr. Baker says he cannot express himself in that regard for he could have dreamed, Vancouver and this city have grown till they have no resemblance to the cities of ten years ago, and there is a solidarity about both cities, that strikes one forcibly. The improvements in Victoria, particularly the public works which have been carried out here, are marked indeed. The interest in London regarding British Columbia is keen, and is growing. The failure of the Liverpool, London & Globe corporation was a heavy blow to the prestige of British Columbia in the eyes of the British public, but the province is now recovering from the injury caused by that event, and the attention of the investor is again being turned this way. Manitoba is also attracting great interest, and is being developed. Mr. Baker intends to see the Kootenays that he may learn of the mining development of that province.

Accompanying the well known C. P. R. official are Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Barry and Surgeon General James Jamieson, C. B., as director of the Army Medical Department, and a number of other officials in the Medical Department of the army. General Roberts does with the soldiery. He is, or rather was, the head of the surgical and medical corps of the British army, and was for twenty years in the medical department of the army. He was born in Ayrshire 65 years ago, entered the army medical staff as assistant surgeon in 1877, and first served in Canada with the 47th Foot (North Lancashire regiment). He afterwards served in the West Indies, where a severe epidemic of yellow fever occurred which led to his promotion to staff surgeon. He was then transferred to the Canadian medical service. This rise over many years was afterwards neutralized by an army order, which made promotion to the relative rank of lieutenant-colonel contingent upon 20 years actual full-pay service. He commended a division of the British ambulance during the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, and in 1883 was promoted to brigade surgeon and surgeon-major-general in 1893, and for two years before succeeding to the appointment of surgeon general, he served as professional assistant to Sir Wm. McKinnon. He was head of the army medical corps and superintendent of the medical services during the Sudan and the recent South African wars. His wife is a sister of Sir Richard Cartwright, minister of trade and commerce of Canada.

A CLEAR ISSUE.

Senator Templeman, according to the Kootenay Mail, has formulated the Liberal policy for the province of British Columbia, by means of which the mining industry is to be relieved and encouraged. It is to abolish the duties on mining machinery, dynamite, candles, steel rails and milling machinery. This will cheapen the cost of mining and cause the sun of prosperity to shine upon the mine owner's bank balance. Surely, however, if the mine owner is to have relief of this kind the miner is entitled to relief of the same or a similar kind. Why should the mine owner pay no duty on machinery, powder, candles, and rails, and the miner continue to pay duty on everything he eats and wears? It is not logical. Senator Templeman must go further and abolish the duties on food products to the miner. Then we would have the mining market for machinery, powder, candles, and steel rails taken away from the Canadian manufacturer and mechanic and handed over to the American manufacturer and mechanic; while the mining market for food products was also taken away from the farmer of the Northwest and of British Columbia and Ontario, and handed over to the farmer of the Colville Valley and the Palouse country in the State of Washington. This highly desirable condition of affairs would certainly affect the industrial independence of Canada and diminish her population and opportunities, but it would cheapen the cost of producing ore from the mines of British Columbia. It would not improve the condition of the miner living in Canada because his wages would soon fall with the cheapening of what he spent them on. It would injure the Canadian farmer and injure the Canadian manufacturer and mechanic. In the face of all which it is a little difficult to see just where Canada would benefit. All the industries whose products are used in mining would be denationalized, the food supply and other articles of consumption used by those engaged in mining would also be denationalized. There are no industries in Canada now based on the products of our mines, and under such a policy there never could be, whereas by judicious protection they may and will be developed. The mine owner we have said would be benefited, but only for a very short time. While he bought all his supplies abroad, he would also be obliged to sell all his ore abroad, and he would be obliged to sell it at the buyer's price, which, in a trust-controlled market, would be merely a bare margin over the cost of production. We should then have a sweet state of things in Canada. Mines certainly, but mines neither fed by Canadian agriculture and industry, nor feeding Canadian industry themselves. This would be the logical outcome of such a policy as that formulated by the worthy senator. It only requires to be understood to be rejected in the most absolute and unqualified manner. Surely we all want to see the Canadian farmer feed the Canadian miner, and the Canadian mechanic clothe him; surely we all want to see the Canadian manufacturer supply the mines with machinery; surely we all want to see the Canadian mines the basis of a great and increasing manufacturing industry; in a word, surely we all want to see nothing but raw material imported into the country, and nothing but highly finished manufactures exported from it, barring our surplus food yearly growing less proportionately as our population increased. There is no method by which all this can be brought about except by adequate protection and a national tariff policy. If the gold, silver, lead, copper, iron, sulphur, timber and pulp wood of British Columbia are to be the foundation of such industry as they are fitted to establish, it all manner of manufactured articles from a needle to an anchor are to leave our shores in Canadian-built ships for the great markets of the Pacific, as some day they will if we build aright, we must lay the foundation on the broad basis of protection now. We make an ill beginning if we encourage all our wealth to be drained away to enrich the commerce and manufactures of an alien state.

The Dawson Daily News has just published a "Golden Clean-up" edition, which is creditable alike to the enterprise and talent of the management and staff of the paper. The edition is in magazine form, and contains 80 pages of well prepared reading matter, handsomely illustrated with well executed half tones. A series of pictures shows all the work of placer mining from the discovery of a claim to the clean-up. Such pictures are more eloquent than pages of descriptive letter press. The cover is well done in olive green and brown tints, the design by R. Davenport, of Dawson, being highly artistic. The News has reason to feel proud of its effort, which would reflect credit on any printing establishment in the Dominion. The fact that a Dawson newspaper can produce such work is the best possible proof of the advancement of the Yukon capital to a place among the best cities of Canada.

FIRE CHIEF'S CONVENTION.

Preparations About Perfected For the Meeting of October 7.

Chief Watson, of the Victoria Fire brigade, returned from Seattle yesterday, where he had gone to assist in perfecting arrangements for the convention of the Northwest Fire Chiefs, which will be held in this city on October 7-10. The chief is well satisfied with the arrangements at Seattle, and anticipates a good attendance, and a very successful meeting.

The visitors will be royally entertained during their stay in Victoria, the members of the brigade being busy devising means for their comfort and amusement. They will be shown everything of interest in and about the city, and on the evening of the 9th will be entertained at a grand ball to be held in the market building.

The convention will hold its sessions in the City Hall, and modern methods of fire protection and fire fighting will be discussed by the chiefs of the cities of the Pacific Northwest, many of whom are fresh from the big convention recently held in New York, and will therefore have much of interest and importance to communicate.

Princess May Passes Steamer

en Route to Steamboat Bay to Be Beached.

Floated on Friday Last—Congestion of Freight at White

Horse.

Steamer Princess May which reached port yesterday afternoon from Skagway, brings news that the stranded steamer Cottage City, which was wrecked on the point of Etolin island, was floated on Friday last at high tide, and with the tug Pioneer, of the Puget Sound Tugboat company, and a Vangel tug, escorted her, she proceeded to Steamboat Bay nearby, where she was to be beached and temporary repairs effected to allow of her steaming to Seattle. The Princess May passed the Cottage City while she was making her way down from the North about two weeks ago. She was proceeding towards Wrangell at night when she struck on the point of Etolin island.

The Princess May brings news that the steamer is showing that the river steamers are carrying smaller cargoes. In consequence freight is now beginning to be congested at White Horse, but the transportation men are hopeful that they will be able to take the greater part to Dawson before the navigation ends on the Northern river. There is about four thousand tons of freight at White Horse. The river steamer Casca struck on her last trip, and shippers are to handle her freight.

The steamer had a large number of passengers, but only the local travelers came to Victoria, those for Seattle and other points having been transferred to the train at Vancouver. Capt. J. W. Troup, manager of the C. P. N. company, returned to Vancouver after making the round trip on the steamer. J. B. Charleston, who went North on business in connection with the telegrapher's strike, returned from Dawson and reported having settled the strike. Fred Wade, who came south to confer with Governor Ross, now in this city, was another passenger. The passengers for Victoria also included John Hepburn, who was connected with the Indian river conglomerate properties, and who has been engaged in mining business in the Klondike district; Lewis Marks, the well known local merchant, and J. C. Boyle.

According to advices received from Athol the coroner's jury which investigated the death of William Joyce, at Spruce Junction, who was supposed to have set his hand to the murder of the murdered man, has determined that the theory at first advanced is erroneous. The position of the body and the nature of the burns on the hands and body indicated to the jury that he had been fighting his way until nearly exhausted, from where he ran to the creek and accidentally fell in and drowned. It is thought that a lamp probably caused the fire.

The members of the Liberal party residing at White Horse have organized for the coming political battle in the Yukon and they will support Governor Ross for the parliament. The delegates to the Liberal convention, who are to convene at Dawson this week are instructed to support the governor for the nomination. The delegates selected to represent White Horse at the convention are as follows: Robert Lewis, J. MacLennan, J. P. Whitney, Capt. Stewart, W. L. Phelps, Robert Stewart, Dave Stevens, J. West, N. D. Macaulay and A. R. Gordon.

EARLY CLOSING.
City Grocers Will Ask For Passage of By-law.

A committee composed of representatives from the grocers, Retail Clerks' union and the Trades and Labor council (see front page) have busy yesterday securing signatures to a petition to the City Council praying for the passage of a by-law directing the closing of grocers' shops at 6:30 o'clock in the evening. Thirty-six of the thirty-six grocers called upon yesterday signed the petition. As it only requires three-fourths of those engaged in a business to petition for early closing, the City Council will in all probability accede to the request, more than the requisite number having already signed the petition.

THE HONEST BLACKSMITH.
Bob Fitzsimmons, Ex-Champion Pugilist, at Victoria Theatre.

Robert Fitzsimmons, the popular actor-pugilist whose heavyweight battles have gained for him admiration of the multitude, will appear at the Victoria theatre tomorrow night in his own comedy drama entitled "The Honest Blacksmith." His beautiful wife and their son Bob, Jr., play principal roles, the story of the drama being written around Bob's life, telling how he desired to obtain enough money to save his friend from ruin, and how he challenged and defeated the champion, thereby gaining his end.

The fight is shown by means of biograph pictures, reproducing the Fitzsimmons-Rudin fight. In another act, Bob makes a shoe and shoes a horse, and also spars three fast rounds and punches the bag in a bewildering fashion.

FROM STIMULAMINE.
Barrister From Upper Country Tells of Development.

Mr. J. Macintosh, a prominent barrister practicing in the Similkameen district, has arrived in the city on a visit, and says there is much work going on in the coal lands of that part of the province. The British Columbia Collieries company of this city has taken over twelve square miles of coal lands which lie between the Tulameen and the Similkameen, and are on the route of the proposed railway line through that district. The section of the country property are very large, and on the Similkameen's banks on the property there is a coal measure 70 feet across at the bottom of the river, the thickness of which has not been estimated. This measure is exposed by the river, having carried away the wash from its bed. Engineers who have recently examined this property say the coal is of splendid quality, being a fine bituminous coal of the Bromley river with the south fork of the Similkameen a seam of lignite is exposed. There is much interest in the new discovery, and there also, for the Similkameen district has been shown to be very rich in mineral, oil and coal.

Coal Mines Commission

Examination at Fernie Finished—Next Sitting Is at Camberland.

Afterwards Meetings Will Be Held at Nanaimo and Ladysmith.

The members of the commission appointed by the government, to enquire into the causes of explosions in mines, have returned from Fernie, where they have completed the taking of evidence. The commissioners will hold their next meeting at Camberland, leaving for there this morning, and will then proceed to Nanaimo and Ladysmith. It is expected that the work of taking evidence will occupy the next three weeks.

At Fernie the commissioners examined some 25 witnesses, most of whom had many years experience in coal mining, and including most of the underground officials of the mines at Coal creek, Morley, and the mining inspectors of the district. The subjects covered were safety lamps, explosives, the watering of dusty mines, tamping, electric motors in mines, ventilation, and the legislation necessary to regulate these and the punishment of men, who, by smoking or carrying matches in the mines or committing other illegal acts, may imperil the general safety of those employed.

Suggestions for changes in the examinations for miners, firemen and overmen were also asked for and given freely by the witnesses, all of whom testified under oath. The question of explosives received its full share of attention. Some of the witnesses were in favor of some of the "permitted explosives" such as are authorized by the British government. All expressed themselves in favor of some system of watering dusty mines. Tamping came in for a good share of attention, and while many spoke in favor of clay tamping, others thought, under proper conditions, coal dust properly wetted, or shale, fully safe. The examination of holes by shot lighters before charging was also dealt with, a laxity in this respect in some places being pointed out.

Electric motors were only in favor in main airways, some objecting to them anywhere in the mine on account of the possible ignition of light dust by sparking.

Ventilation and velocity were thoroughly threshed out, a full air current being apparently most in favor. Most of the witnesses were in favor of alternating the system of examination, leaving the miners' examination as it is after a year's employment at the face or in timbering with an amendment of the present law, to provide that mine bosses, overmen and shot lighters be examined by the same board as mine managers.

The Explosion At Skagway

How the Dynamite Planned
Bank Robbery and to Escape by Dyea.

Robber Did Not Drop Dynamite
Which Was Exploded by Concussion of Revolver

Further details of the dynamite explosion at the Skagway branch of the Bank of Commerce were received by the steamer Princess May, which reached port yesterday afternoon. According to some of those who knew the dead dynamiter in his lifetime, he was a desperate criminal and had deliberately planned the robbery of the bank, intending to escape via Dyea. It has been stated that the dynamite was insured, but investigation at Skagway has proved that the man was sane and that he accidentally killed himself in a bold and thoroughly matured plan to hold up the bank. The theory of the affair, one that was held by the coroner's jury and the officers who have been investigating the matter, is all but conclusively proven by the results of the tragedy, as told by John G. Price, and by the experiences of Bob Wright, of Dyea, with the robber for some days prior to the last act of his career.

Bob Wright's story in substance was that the dynamiter met him on the Friday preceding the tragedy, and asked if he was from Dyea. When answered in the affirmative, he brought out a revolver and asked about the number of people on the summit and along the trail and the chances of getting anything to eat there. On Sunday, the day prior to the explosion, the man met Wright again and bought another drink at the same place and about the same ground was again gone over. This time the man asked him if the officers were after him, and he said, "No, but I might want to go over there."

After he had said he was not fleeing from the officers, Wright took him to the waterfront and showed him his boat. The man objected that it would be too slow and asked particularly about the overland trail, and the place to catch it. Wright's third interview with the man was about 20 minutes before the explosion Monday. He then asked Wright to meet him near the Bishop Howe hospital at 3 o'clock. He said he wanted to be shown the trail to Dyea and that he would have $1,000 or be in hell in a few minutes.

The employees of the Board of Trade saloon at Skagway recognize the dead man as one who had been playing blackjack at the table place a good deal of time for ten days or two weeks. He was of a taciturn make-up and seemed to be a careful player. He did not platoon, but played to make money whenever he had a deal. He would dig up more money to cover all the bets offered when he had not enough on the table. He was not a hard drinker. His fortune varied, but one night he lost $80, which seemed to take the major portion of his money. The man seldom spoke and never said anything of himself, except to recognize another player at the table one evening as a railroad man, and from that it was discovered that he, too, was an ex-railroader.

It was also discovered that the dynamite which the wreck of the bank was made was stolen from the railroad company's magazine. On Saturday prior to the explosion a man, whom employees at the shops recognize as the dead man, called for a box of dynamite from Van Cerve. Being told that he would not arrive for more than an hour, he left. Since that time it was discovered that the staples to the door of the magazine had been removed by a box of dynamite, and the magazine was opened and removed. The railroad men say it was stolen, as the employees never break open a box in the magazine. When they take dynamite from the building it is always by the box.

It is believed that the dynamite was wanted by the desperate man for the purpose of blinding the bankers, or for the purpose of blowing up the institution after getting the money, to hide the footprints of crime by killing the bankers, and to create confusion, during which he could escape.

J. G. Price, the injured Skagway lawyer, has recovered, and in an interview regarding the affair, he said: "I met a man, whom I believe, from the description of the dead man, who wrecked the bank, as I was going from my office to the postoffice. He was in front of the bank. I went into the postoffice and returned after posting a letter, and as I entered the bank, I noticed a man, the same one previously seen. I think standing at the ledger window where Mr. Wallace works. As I stepped into the door he hurriedly stepped to the teller's window and fired. As I was backing out of the door to make a retreat, the explosion took place. At that time I struck him that Mr. Pooley had fired at the man, and missing him, had shot me, as I felt the blow in my face from flying glass. Of course I at once saw the whole front of the building coming out into the street and knew that there had been an explosion."

This version of the affair makes it certain that revolver shots were fired, and proves that the explosion was probably the result of the concussion from the revolver and was not intended to take place.

H. M. Lay, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which has opened in the postoffice temporarily, stated that the money lost by the bank may reach $200, though this is not certain as yet. The loss will be mostly in gold dust.

Wonderful Invention

The works will then be prepared to smelt ore by the ordinary processes. The gentleman interested in the Garretson patents have installed their furnaces at Crofton in order to demonstrate its capacities, and it is more than probable that in the event of its proving successful in all that is promised for it, the Northwestern Smelting & Refining Company will adopt it in preference to their own plant.

SATURDAY'S TEST.

When Mr. Baggeley and his party arrived at the works, the Garretson furnace was found to be in full blast, so far as the smelting or upper chamber was concerned. Car after car of low grade ore from the Leonard of Mr. Sicker, was being dumped into it straight from the orebins, just as it was taken from the mine. On the floor beneath the furnace a continuous stream of slag which fell into a stream of water which disintegrated and carried it off to deposit it on the sea beach below the smelter. The furnace had been in operation for about six hours, and Mr. Baggeley was anxious that the blast should be turned on in the converting chamber in order to test that important part of the machine. This was done, and for some time worked most promisingly, but by an unfortunate mistake in the engine room, the blast was momentarily cut off, and the matte in the bottom of the furnace cooled, clogging the furnace with matte. Had it not been for this regrettable occurrence, there is no doubt in the minds of those who understand the furnace, that blaster copper would have been produced in due course. As it was, the matte worked splendidly. It received the wet, low grade ore, containing from 4 to 5 per cent. of copper, and converted it into 50 per cent. of matte, which in itself was a great achievement. The matte was tapped at 8 o'clock p.m., and it discharged a big stream of matte, which rushed through the troughs to the floor beneath and spreading out, formed a lake of living, splashing, bubbling fire, a very beautiful sight. Several assays of the matte were made, and all gave very satisfactory results.

A WONDERFUL ACHIEVEMENT.

Important as are the results just mentioned, the most important of all is the fact that Mr. Bellinger has succeeded in smelting and separating the barytes from the low grade Mount Sicker ores without special and elaborate machinery, which would render the treatment of these ores practically pointless. The Leonard ore carries a very large percentage of this heavy spar, the specific gravity of which almost equals that of copper, as high as 41 per cent. in some cases, and its presence has been regarded as a bar to its economical treatment; in fact, some metallurgists have expressed the opinion that it would be impossible to deal profitably with any but the higher grade ore. The problem of getting rid of this substance without the use of costly fluxes and elaborate processes confronted Mr. Bellinger when he and his associates first thought of establishing the Crofton smelter, and it was only after a long series of careful experiments made at Butte, Montana, with Leonard ore that the difficulty was solved, and the partners decided to go on with the smelter. Saturday's test of the Garretson furnace confirmed the results of experiments made on a small scale at Butte, and even if that were all which was accomplished, it must be considered as a great achievement, a feat of the highest importance to the future of mining on Vancouver Island. Although this test in smelting was performed by the low grade furnace, the fact that it was not lost of the furnace installed by the Northwestern Smelting & Refining Company is equipped to do the same work; in fact, with the use of the Garretson converting chamber to the base of the big Crofton smelter, and an augmentation of the blast, it will do all the work claimed for the Garretson furnace, and in all likelihood the improvements will be made by arrangements with the patentees, when there is sufficient ore available to warrant the operation of the whole plant.

WELL SATISFIED.

Mr. Baggeley and his associates were much pleased with the results of the test of the Garretson furnace, and they expressed their admiration of the remarkable skill displayed by Mr. Bellinger in overcoming every difficulty which presented. In ordinary cases the sudden chilling of a charge is a very serious matter, which can only be overcome by "mining" the solid matter, but Mr. Bellinger, with rare promptitude and decision, arranged matters so that by noon on Sunday the converting chamber of the furnace was empty of work, and he expressed his determination of continuing the experiment from the stage at which it had been checked. Other engagements would not permit Mr. Baggeley and his friends to avail of the opportunity, but they felt convinced that Mr. Bellinger would accomplish all that he set himself to do, and they left Crofton full of confidence and well satisfied with the successful test of the furnace. Crofton was left at 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, and the party arrived at Victoria at 4 o'clock after a very delightful trip. Mr. Baggeley and party left for Seattle yesterday en route for Pittsburgh.

ANOTHER INVENTION.

The inventor of the Garretson furnace has also devised a new rotary boiler by means of which the heat of the slag will generate steam to drive the engines which supply the air to the blast. It is calculated that the heat carried off by the slag from a 100 ton furnace is sufficient, if fully utilized, to generate 1,000 horse power and from the furnace at Crofton at least 120 horse power could be obtained. It is the intention to install one of these boilers at Crofton, which will save a very large outlay for fuel.

AN EVENT.
Another interesting event witnessed by the visitors to Crofton was the first lighting of the buildings by electricity. The City of Nanaimo took up the last piece of machinery for the electric light plant. It was put in position during Saturday afternoon and evening, and by 10 o'clock p.m. the lights were turned on. The appearance of the lighted buildings, with the huge column of smoke curling out of the high stack, seen from the dock, was very striking and will make a picture on dark nights to passers-by aboard ship.

Be a friend to Yourself!

Take proper care of yourself. Look after that most important possession—your health. A little neglect or carelessness and you open the door to serious illness.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

taken regularly will keep you in good health. It clears the head, gently regulates the bowels and strengthens the digestion. It drives away constipation. Do not take substitutes. Insist on "Abbey's."
